October 3: No Farm Payrolls

Mixed US ISM services with no jobs report; BoJ's Ueda dovish ahead of LDP election with prediction markets favoring Koizumi; Fed's Logan cautious on further cuts; potential Gaza ceasefire; DXY at 97.723 (-0.1%); US 10y at 4.120 (+3.7bp).

With the September jobs report delayed, global rates trade on statements from key policymakers at the Fed, BoJ, and ECB.

Developed Markets

- The US government shutdown continues as the Senate once again fails to pass a funding bill, with no change in lawmakers' votes. The shutdown will last at least through the weekend, as the Senate reconvenes on Monday. Meanwhile, the House of Representatives is currently scheduled to be on recess next week, meaning the shutdown can end next week only if the Senate passes the funding bill already passed by House Republicans, or if the House returns early to vote on a renegotiated funding bill. Our public policy strategists highlight the two-week mark as a key catalyst informing timing expectations for the shutdown.
- US Treasuries bear-flatten as Fedspeak leans hawkish and the ISM services print shows signs of stagflation. In the morning, Chicago Fed President Goolsbee reiterates his expectation that the unreleased September unemployment rate would most likely have been 4.3%, based on the Chicago Fed's analysis. In addition, our economists estimate that Thursday's unreleased initial jobless claims was likely around 224k — roughly in line with consensus — based on the state-level data normally analyzed by the Department of Labor.
- The US rates sell-off deepens after ISM services data shows mixed signals, coming in weak at 50.0 (C: 51.7), with even weaker new orders (50.4; C: 54.0). The data could point to slowing activity and persistent inflation, potentially clouding the narrative for additional Fed cuts amid shutdown uncertainty. The market-implied probability of a Fed cut falls by 3-4% for each of the next several meetings, though our economists see no clear signal from the report. Yields climb further as Dallas Fed President Logan reiterates a cautious stance towards further rate cuts.
- Japanese rates rally across the curve as BoJ Governor Ueda conveys a cautious approach to further rate hikes, striking a contrast with BoJ Board Member Noguchi's hawkish remarks on Monday. Ahead of the LDP leadership election on Saturday, whose winner will likely become the new prime minister, prediction markets shift further in favor of Agriculture Minister Koizumi. The market-implied odds of a Takaichi victory rise to over 80%, compared to 15% for Takaichi. Long-end JGBs outperform as market participants price a potentially less fiscally expansionary policy path. As JGB yields fall by ~2bp across the curve, JPY underperforms the G10 (USD/JPY:

- Euro area rates slightly twist flatten, with the front end underperforming as ECB President Lagarde says that euro area inflation is "in a good place," as the ECB has "done a lot already." The long remains well-supported (30y Bund: -1bp), particularly in Spain (30y Bonos: -2bp). The spread between bonos and bunds has tightened ~3.5bp over the week, driven by Spain's recent ratings upgrades and the announced €5bn reduction in net issuance. In the EUR swaps market, long-end curves also flatten modestly, but end the week steeper overall by ~2bp in 10s30s.
- The dollar reverses yesterday's strength (DXY: -0.1%) as risk assets trade sideways, with the S&P 500 closing largely unchanged. Risk-sensitive currencies strengthen into the New York afternoon (AUD/USD +0.1%, NZD/USD +0.2%, GBP/USD +0.3%, USD/NOK -0.3%). In the US equity market, healthcare stocks continue to rally (+1.1%), with market participants potentially expecting the shutdown to resolve in a successful extension of the Affordable Care Act subsidies — the key area of debate between Democrats and Republicans.

Emerging Markets

- CEEMEA sees mixed performance, with rates selling off in Turkey following a strong CPI print (3.2% m/m; C: 2.6%). The entire Turkish OIS curve shifts higher by ~45bp. In Israel, ILS rallies sharply in the New York afternoon (USD/ILS: -0.6%) amid signs of progress towards a potential ceasefire in Gaza, though negotiations are ongoing. In the Czech Republic, the curve bull-flattens (2y: -1bp; 10y: -4bp) upon the release of the meeting minutes from the CNB's recent meeting, where policymakers said that rates could move in either direction.
- AxJ currencies and rates trade mixed, with Korean and onshore Chinese markets closed for local holidays. USD/CNH holds steady near 7.135 amid mixed US-China trade developments. US Treasury Secretary Bessent predicts a "pretty big breakthrough" in trade talks, and media reporting suggests that China will offer the US an investment package in exchange for the US lowering its investment controls. In Taiwan, USD/TWD falls as much as 0.2% intraday before paring losses amid unconfirmed reports of state banks buying USD to offset ~$640mn of foreign equity inflows. In the Philippines, PHP outperforms, gaining 0.4% against USD amid domestic political developments.
- LatAm rates broadly underperform, particularly in Brazil. The Brazilian DI curve continues to bear-steepen following the proposed tax reforms on Thursday, as well as a smaller-than-expected decline in August industrial production (-0.7% y/y; C: -1.3%). Mexican rates remain relatively resilient, with the TIE curve trading roughly flat.

Central Bank Monitor

Developed Markets

- BoJ Governor Ueda remains cautious about tariff impacts on the US economy. Ueda highlights three key areas to watch: developments in overseas economies, particularly the US; how US tariff policies affect profits and the wage- and price-setting behavior of Japanese firms; and food prices. Our economists still expect the BoJ to keep its policy rate unchanged at its October meeting. Read more

- Chicago Fed President Goolsbee, a voting FOMC member, reiterates that the September unemployment rate would most likely have been 4.3%, based on the Chicago Fed's analysis. He maintains his cautious tone from recent statements.
- Fed Vice Chair Jefferson reiterated that he sees "risks to employment as tilted to the downside and risks to inflation to the upside," though both sides of the dual mandate are under pressure.
- Fed Governor Miran reiterates that the neutral interest rate has moved lower, and the Fed's policy decisions should rely on forward-looking estimates. He cautions against relying on backward-looking data and emphasizes persistent disinflation trends tied to housing and services.
- Dallas Fed President Logan reiterates caution towards further rate cuts, describing current policy as only "modestly restrictive." She remains wary of prolonged tariff effects and sees the Fed as farther away from its inflation mandate. Logan will be a voting FOMC member next year.
- New York Fed President Williams says the Fed's use of its balance sheet is not unconventional, noting that monetary policy tools extend beyond short-term interest rates.
- ECB President Lagarde says that euro area inflation is "in a good place," as the ECB has "done a lot already." She notes the economy overall "has shown more resilience than anticipated." Lagarde also calls for non-banks to face stricter regulatory scrutiny.
- ECB Executive Member Schnabel suggests that financial markets could be underestimating risks.
- BoE Governor Bailey also highlights the risks of rolling back financial regulations.

Emerging Markets

- RBI Governor Malhotra said that India's economy seems well settled into an equilibrium of resilient growth, citing India's strong FX reserves, low inflation since February, narrow current account deficit, credible fiscal consolidation path, and the strong balance sheets of banks and corporates.

Economic Releases

Developed Markets

- US September ISM Services Index: 50.0 (C: 51.7; P: 52.0). Signals softness, but this print has not closely tracked broader services activity since the pandemic. The employment component edged up slightly to 47.2 from 46.5, but overall, our economists take no strong conclusions from the report.
- UK September Final PMI Services: 50.8 (MSe: 51.9; C: 51.9; P: 51.9) & Composite PMI: 50.1 (MSe: 51.0 C: 51.0; P: 51.0)

- Brazil August Industrial Production: -0.7% y/y (P: 0.2%; C: -1.3%). Industrial output declined, but slightly less than consensus expectations. Suggests continued economic slowdown, but at a very gradual pace.
- Mexico July Gross Fixed Investment NSA: -6.6% y/y (P: -6.4%; C: -7.3%). Indicates further softening in investment activity, though the contraction was less severe than anticipated.

Trading Strategy 1 – "Trade Longs/Fade Shorts"

When the 5-day moving average crosses above the 20-day moving average, buy the futures contract (long duration) and hold for a 25-business-day period. When the 5-day moving average crosses below the 20-day moving average, buy the futures contract and hold for a 25-business-day period. In short, this strategy buys futures when the Simple Moving Average Crossover (SMAX) generates both a long and a short signal, given the historical outperformance of long signals traded long and the underperformance of short signals traded short. Given that the SMAX could generate both a long and a short signal within the predefined holding period, an investor may have a 200% long position since each of the two signals would be traded in separate portfolio sleeves.

Trading Strategy 2 – Trade "Longs Only"

When the 5-day moving average crosses above the 20-day moving average, buy the futures contract (long duration) and hold for a 25-business-day period. When the 5-day moving average crosses below the 20-day moving average, do nothing. In short, an investor only trades long signals initiated by the SMAX given their historical precedent to outperform.
